21 The common term for the deforestation technique used to clear large areas of forest is called "Slash and Burn". This	21 technique to clear
23 technique is used predominately in the forests of central Africa, Southeast Asia and South America, mostly for agricultural purposes. Over time huge areas of forest have been destroyed through this method because an average rural family needs about 25 to 40 hectares of rotation land. When the clearing takes place, ashes from the burnt vegetation fertilize the soil.	23 forests agricultural 25 to 40 hectares fertilize
